Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Where applicant acts as his or her own lexicographer to specifically define a term of a claim contrary to its ordinary meaning, the written description must clearly redefine the claim term and set forth the uncommon definition so as to put one reasonably skilled in the art on notice that the applicant intended to so redefine that claim term. Process Control Corp. v. HydReclaim Corp., 190 F.3d 1350, 1357, 52 USPQ2d 1029, 1033 (Fed. Cir. 1999). The term “heat sink” in claim 1 is used by the claim to mean “fin”, while the accepted meaning is “a cooling device including a plurality of fins attached to a conductive base.” The term is indefinite because the specification does not clearly redefine the term.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kuo.

Note central recess or groove 11 of Kuo for receiving a mounting clip, which reads on the claimed "platform", and note inclined surfaces 13 on which equally spaced fins are disposed. Note member 30 regarding the claimed frame, and note fan 20. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The remaining references show various finned heat sinks with bases having inclined surfaces on which fins are disposed.
